

HOW TO DEAL WITH TEACHER WHO YOU DON'T LIKE>

Last several years, I've run into several parents who were not happy with his son and daughter's class teacher and asking my opinion (leading me to I complain about that teacher). This person probably complaining about teachers without seen how exactly teacher is teaching in the class. Either way, a parent who complains at front of child, he will be teaching child that how to respond to frustrations rather teaching how to deal with such circumstance and constructively resolve it. (Thought I had opportunity to help these parents.)

Here was conversation with one of them:

I asked this person that how many years have you working for your company? He said "15 years". Do you have same boss for 15 years and always happy with? He said "I had 5 bosses and some were not good." I said "That's great ! You seems like you didn't walk away from your bad bosses and managed to deal with it."

(Effort)

I suggested this person to teach his son from his experiences that how he survived and maintain your job for 15 years and promoted to manager with dealing with 5 different bosses.

(Respect)

I added following 7 suggestions to give to his children:

1. Every teacher has own style. Just like we are.
2. Most of teacher has a good intention that try their way to teach to students regardless of each students like teacher's style or not. (Give a respect to their intention.)
3. Similar circumstance will be happened when you start working. Let's find the way to adopt and constructively deal the situation. Good thing, you don't have to keep this teacher for many years. It's quite short period of your life.
4. Hating and denying will not help you to grow and improve your capacity.
5. Concentrate for your principal which is your objectives while in school.
6. Look for something you can learn from this teacher while you have them instead of shutting yourself and hate. You may find something good from them.
7. This is good life practices. / Opportunity to grow your personal capacity.
